They said that the eateries and shops were located near the Board of Intermediate Education Karachi and North Nazimabad and Paharganj areas. The sealed establishments included Taj Hassan Pakwan, Chaye Dhabha, MashaAllah Car Gas, Hassan Zai Auto and a tyre shop.

The officials said in District Keamari, two eateries in Rashidabad and Saeedabad, Baldia Town, were given warning against future encroachment.

Hatim Alavi, municipal merger and America's future

By Peerzada Salman

ON Jan 26, 1976, Hatim Alavi, a former mayor of Karachi, a close associate of the Quaid-i-Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah, and a prominent leader of the Pakistan movement, died in Mauritius where he had gone to see his daughter. He was returning to Karachi when he suffered a fatal heart attack. On Jan 28, Mr Alavi was laid to rest at Noor Bagh (Saddar Dawoodi Bohra Jamaat) graveyard. His funeral was attended by hundreds of people from all walks of life. The administrator of the Karachi Municipal Corporation (KMC), M A Majeed, placed a wreath at the grave of the former mayor while Brig Jamil Akhtar, chairman of the Karachi Electric Supply Corporation (KESC, now KE), placed two wreaths. Scores of condolence messages from all over the country were received by the late mayor's son, Aftab Alavi.

The KMC was in the news for another reason that week. A proposal to merge the Landhi-Korangi Municipal Committee (L-KMC) with the KMC had been debated for some time. On Jan 30, it was reported that the Sindh Local Government Department had not received a single objection from citizens to the proposed merger of the L-KMC and the KMC. The last date for filing objections was Jan 19, and inquiries showed no objection had been filed in response to the public notice published earlier in the month.

Steps such as the one mentioned above are taken to brighten the future prospects of a town or a country. Speaking of which, on Jan 29, Robert W Moore, US Consul-General in Karachi, said the future of America, 'the mighty nation fashioned in just two centuries', was brighter than before. Speaking at an event held in the city on the subject of 'bicentennial of the American revolution' he claimed that America's success was due to the fact that the signers of the US Declaration of Independence had laid the foundation for every citizen's right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. The guarantee of such fundamental rights had lured millions of talented and hardworking "immigrants from all over the world to help build America into the nation we know today", he said. Mr Moore added, "American history had been marked by pain and challenges, but there had always been progress. America is and will continue to be the same stronghold for men and women of independent spirit, energy and individualism as it was in 1776."

On the artistic side of city life, on Jan 27, rich tributes were paid to the late Prof Shakir Ali as a pioneer of modern art in Pakistan and for his humanism, impressionism and purity of expression in abstract figurative paintings that 'symbolised love, peace and beauty' at an event held at the Ateller B M Art Academy to commemorate his first death anniversary. The programme was presided over by eminent social thinker Sibte Hasan. The participants included artist Ahmed Parvez, playwright Kamal Ahmed Rizvi, art critic Hameed Zaman and artist Bashir Mirza.

SHC upholds wildlife raid, terms bird trade without permit 'illegal'

By Ishaq Tanoli

KARACHI: The Sindh High Court (SHC) has noted that seizing animals and birds and the sealing of shops in Saddar birds market by the personnel of the Sindh Wildlife Department (SWD) came within four corners of law, as the shopkeepers were doing business without valid permission.

The SHC also directed the department to keep the seized animals and birds in safe and conducive conditions since the same were being categorised as "protected species".

A two-judge constitutional bench of the SHC comprising Justice Muhammad Saleem Jessar and Justice Nisar Ahmed Bhanbhro further stated that if intended to continue with the trade of birds and animals, the petitioners may approach the wildlife department for permission and the same be considered in accordance with law.

The bench ruled that its earlier order passed on Jan 19, about de-sealing of the shops will remain intact, but the petitioners must not engage in illicit trade of birds and animals.

It further directed the wildlife department to ensure that the illicit trade of wildlife and birds is curbed at all levels.

The bench issued such directives while disposing of a petition filed against seizing of animals and birds and sealing the shops in the birds market in Saddar.

The petitioners submitted that they were shopkeepers and continuously carrying on lawful business at the birds market for the last 12 to 15 years.

However, they asserted that the personnel of wildlife department had illegally raided the market on Jan 14, seized birds, animals, cages, and cash and also unlawfully sealed more than 50 shops.

A provincial law officer argued that the petitioners and their associates were involved in illegal wildlife trade, which warranted action strictly in accordance with the Sindh Wildlife Protection Act, 2020.

A report of the deputy conservator wildlife Karachi said that the seized animals and birds belonged to foreign origin and mostly were "protected species".

The bench in its order noted that under the applicable law, a permission was required to engage in trade of wildlife that included birds and such trade without permission was an offence.

When confronted, the counsel for petitioners failed to place on record any valid permission from the competent authority for doing business of wildlife mammals and birds.

In such circumstances, it observed that the law has empowered the wildlife officers or any other law enforcement agency, to prevent the commission of any offence under the law and may take cognisance of the same.

"The respondent wildlife department conducted search of the premises operated by petitioners and found petitioners and other persons involved in the trade of birds and animals without valid permission, as such took possession birds and animals and sealed the shops. The action taken by the respondents fell within the four corners of law, as such did not require interference", it added.

Without looking into disputed questions of fact which may require evidence and more appropriately examined by the competent forum, the bench also noted that the welfare, safety, and protection of the seized birds and animals remained a matter of paramount concern.

YouTuber remanded in NCCIA custody

By Our Staff Reporter

KARACHI: A judicial magistrate remanded a YouTuber in the custody of the National Cyber Crime Investigation Agency (NCCIA) in a defamation case registered under the Prevention of Electronic Crime Act (Peca).

The agency arrested YouTuber Mudasir Khan from Islamabad on January 22 and after obtaining transit remand from the concerned court, the officials brought him before the judicial magistrate (South) on Jan 24 and sought his physical custody for interrogation.

The YouTuber was booked on the complaint of Nawabzadi Alia Dilawar Khanji for allegedly committing offences under Sections 20 (offences against dignity of a natural person), 21-D (offences against modesty of a natural person and minor) and 26-A (punishment for false and fake information) of Peca.

According to the FIR, the complainant said that YouTuber "repeatedly disseminated lies and propaganda allegedly provided by Ali Murtaza Khanji and his associates".

She further alleged that Mudasir grossly violated ethical standards and basic human decency by spreading "filth defamation and constituted a serious violation of the modesty, privacy and dignity of the complainant and her family".

The NCCIA stated that a vlog title "The Legend" uploaded on YouTube was technically analysed during the initial probe, which revealed that Mudasir had "used derogatory remarks and indulged in character assassination of the complainant, Nawabzadi Alia Dilawar Khanji, and the family of the Nawab of Junagadh".

Investigating officer Ameer Ali Khoso informed the judicial magistrate (South) that the suspect was apprehended from the capital city and later his transit remand was obtained from a local court in Islamabad.
